

Susan Hathaway Virginia Flaggers

Born and raised in Highland Springs, a small suburb just east of Richmond, Susan grew up in the shadows of the Seven Days Battlefields, and as the daughter of a relic hunter and War Between the States enthusiast, was raised to honor and respect her Southern Heritage. She is the Great-Great Granddaughter of four Confederate Veterans, all of whom served from and for Virginia. A graduate of Highland Springs High School, she received a Bachelor's of Science in Education from Virginia Commonwealth University, and is currently employed at an architecture and design firm in Richmond.

In the fall of 2011, she helped organize the Va Flaggers, who have gained national attention for their ongoing flagging protest of the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts after museum officials forced the removal of Confederate Battle flags from the Confederate Memorial Chapel, as well as their efforts in numerous other heritage defense battles throughout Virginia, and beyond. Since September of 2012, the Va Flaggers have erected 17 large Battle Flags along Interstates and roadways in Virginia, and currently have several additional flag sites under development.

She is the recipient of the Advancing the Colors award from the Lee-Jackson Camp #1, SCV, Richmond; the Ladies Appreciation Medal from the Robert E. Lee Camp #1589, SCV, Midlothian; the Commander-In-Chief's Ladies Appreciation Medal, and received the Stephen Dill Lee Award at the 2013 SCV National Reunion in Vicksburg. She is 2nd Vice-President of the Richmond-Stonewall Jackson #1705 Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, a member of the Sally Tompkins Chapter #2 of the Order of the Confederate Rose, and an associate member of the Edmund Ruffin Fire Eaters #3000 Camp, Sons of Confederate Veterans. She and her husband, Jesse, live in Sandston, and have two children, a son who recently graduated from, and a daughter who is currently a student at Liberty University. She is an active member of Grove Avenue Baptist Church, where she serves in the music ministry.
